THE HEAT WAVE.

New York sized, perspired and groaned with the heat yesterday. Not for years has the thermometer registered so high in combination with the high humidity. The official thermometers recorded from 85 to 97 all day, and on the streets the humidity reached 76, and there was scarcely any breeze. The record of deaths and prostrations was the highest for any day this season and for any day since the great heat wave in July 1896.

The deaths from sunstroke and heat in Greater New York yesterday numbered 16 as far as reported and the serious prostrations exceeded 100.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon business in parts of the city was practically suspended and everybody who could do so flocked to the beaches to get into the water or fled in the hope of getting a breath of fresh air. The suffering among the poorer classes in the tenement-house sections of the East Side and in Brooklyn was terrible. Thousands could not afford to go to the beaches and these were compelled to swelter in stuffy homes. No relief could be obtained in the streets. In many places the thermometers in the streets registered as high as 105.

The parks were thrown open, devoid of all restrictions, and there were throngs who took advantage of them, but even in the parks there was very little relief. The sun beat down mercilessly and there was hardly a breath of air circulating.

Horses collapsed and died all over the city.

The warm wave covers nearly all sections of the country and there is little chance for a drop in temperature.

Thousands slept on the beaches last night. Other thousands tried to sleep on the roofs of tenements. The city park were one huge dormitory of uncomfortable humanity. The city fountains became communistic baths for the young males. The subway were elongated ovens. Dogs went into fits and were destroyed by the hundreds, most of them simply famishing for water.

MOTOR BOAT ACCIDENTS.

An exploding gasoline engine in a motorboat on the Wallkill creek, near Springtown, Ulster county, N. Y., Sunday evening burned three occupants and caused the death of Helen Mack, aged 20, of Brooklyn. All were summer boarders at the farm of John Relyea. Miss Mack was hurled head-long into the water some distance, and was drowned. The other occupants were a young woman and two young men. When they found their clothing in flames they jumped into the water. The woman was only slightly burned, but the men sustained severe burns about the face, head and arms. Yesterday morning the body of Miss Mack was found nearly a mile below the place where the drowning occurred. She had arrived at the farmhouse Saturday night.

Explosion of an oil stove on board the big motorboat Don Quixote yesterday set the craft ablaze and within a half hour burned her to the water's edge at her anchorage off Bergen Beach while her owner, Arthur Ralsay, of Brooklyn, and his wife, who had been sleeping on the boat, had a narrow escape from death. Ralsay, who is a member of the Bergen Beach Yacht Club, was lighting the stove when it exploded. As the flames caught on the woodwork both he and Mrs. Ralsay were forced to jump into the water and clung to the gunwale of the craft while the flames favored the boat. Help reached them from the shore just as they were threatened by the double peril of exhaustion and the advance of the flames toward the part of the boat to which they were clinging. Mrs. Ralsay was taken home suffering from the effects of shock.

Soreness of the muscles, whether induced by violent exercises or injury, is quickly relieved by the free application of Chamberlain's Liniment. This liniment is equally valuable for muscular rheumatism, and always affords quick relief. Sold by W. F. Creighton and Richard Gibson.

CALOMEL FOR TREES.

That a good dose of calomel is as good for a sick tree as for a sick man is the curious doctrine worked out by William Morrison, station agent at Lincoln, Del., who claims practical results to prove his assertion.

Morrison has a large plum tree in front of his house, which is supposed to be about 25 years old. For years the tree has borne but few plums, never over one or two quarts. A faithful believer in calomel for the ills of men, Morrison determined to try his favorite remedy on the tree, and last fall bored a hole in the tree and into this hole introduced a spoonful of the medicine and then plugged the hole up tight.

The result has been wonderful, for the tree, that hardly bore enough plums to give it a name, has several hundred quarts of fruit now ripening on its limbs.

So pleased is Morrison with the effect of his treatment that he will now begin a regular course of medicine to revive the aged and decaying tree. He will also write a careful account of the action of the medicine on the tree and publish it in several farm magazines. Only one doubt assails Morrison. He is wondering what the action of the plums will be on the people who eat them.

EXPULSION OF JEWS.

From July 16 to July 25, inclusive, 941 Jews were expelled from Kiev, Russia, and the suburbs, Solomenka and Demieffka. Of this number 137, while marked for expulsion, were permitted to take their departure without waiting to receive the customary three-day tickets given to those who are expelled by what is known as the "first method." Jews in this class are allowed three days in which to wind up their private affairs and leave. Those falling under the "second measure" are subject to drastic measures. In the nine days mentioned 325 were expelled by the first method and 154 by the second from Kiev, 32 were expelled by the first method and 93 by the second from Solomenka, while 71 were sent away by the first method and 129 by the second from Demieffka. Up to July 25 the records show 7,593 expulsions since May 14, when the imperial decree ordering all Jews illegally residing elsewhere to return within the pale became effective.

Mrs. Nannie McCauley, wife of Otto McCauley, lies in a critical condition at Winchester Memorial Hospital from the effects of poison believed to have been taken with suicidal intent, and her 17-months-old daughter is in the hospital from the same effects. Mrs. McCauley declared that a man who had been attentive to her passed the house three times Sunday night without speaking to her and relatives also gave poison to her child. A package containing poison was found in her stocking.

SUMMER PRICES

ANTHRACITE COAL

Our 1910 summer prices on Anthracite Coal became effective Monday, May 1, 1910.

There has never been a time in the history of our business when we felt that we were able to give better values in Anthracite Coal than we can this season, as we have completed our arrangements to secure our entire supply from two or three of the very best collieries in the Anthracite region, and will have a coal which is uniform in quality, well prepared, and coal that will give far better results than the average.

It is our desire to give our trade the best values that can be had, and we earnestly solicit the orders of our friends and customers.
